SNOW DEPOSITS IN MOUNTAINS

A condition pronounced by agriculturalists as "safe" for the crop and livestock interests of the state this year is reflected in a report now being prepared by H. P. Alps, meteorologist in charge of the United States weather bureau, following a final survey for the season at the summit just completed by weather bureau officials.

Official measurements show that the snow cover contains an average of seventy-six per cent of normal and with normal precipitation from now until the dry season begins, which is reasonably expected, an improved condition over last year and the year previous will result. The water content of the snow cover last year at this time was about eighty-five per cent, but it developed into a dry year because of a lack of rain in the spring and summer.

The average water content in all the big Nevada basins is practically the same except in the Humboldt River basin, where, as expected, it is lower, a summary of reports discloses. Conditions of this year approximate those of two years ago. April 9, 1918 the water content at Summit was thirty-two and one-half inches in a snow cover of seventy-two inches. When this year's final measurement was taken, there was found to be thirty-three inches of water in a snow depth of sixty-nine inches, a density of forty-eight per cent. April 8 last year the water content was forty-one inches, but this was not augmented by later rains and the reservoir supply diminished sooner than it would under normal conditions. In the Walker river basin, the amount of water in the high elevations averaged fifteen and three-tenths inches, as against twenty and eight-tenths inches a year ago.

Wedge, one of the four consulting engineers for the Humboldt River company will arrive in Fallon the week where he will spend several weeks checking tests made at the 1880 valley potash fields. The first unit of the plant will be erected, it is stated, following the completion of Wedge's work. It is expected that it will take four months to erect the first unit, which will be followed by the erection of the second, until the plant is producing eighty tons of muriate of potash per day.

Wedge is a chemical engineer and president of the Process Chemical company of Philadelphia.

The Walk-in-the-Water.

The first steamer, we believe, that was ever operated on Lake Erie was named the Walk-in-the-Water, and was built just 100 years ago, near Black Rock and Buffalo. On her first trip to Detroit the Walk-in-the-Water stopped at Cleveland, where a grand reception was given to her officers and crew and a series of feasts was held to commemorate the awe-inspiring event.—Emergency Fleet News.

AMUSEMENTS

EUGENE O'BRIEN AT THE BUTLER THEATRE

"His Wife's Money" the new Selznick picture, starring Eugene O'Brien, which will be shown at the Butler today is probably described as a comedy drama. Its story is such as to permit of painting of real life with plenty of light and shade and as a consequence there is both wholesome and gripping drama. The public is always interested in the "big things" which producers for the screen find it impossible to use in telling their stories. An early incident of "His Wife's Money" shows a disabled motor boat with a beautiful girl its lone occupant, snatched from sure destruction as it hangs on the very brink of a precipitous waterfall. Deep in the bowels of the earth, later in the action, there is shown a terrific explosion which successfully uncovers a rich vein of ore which means a fortune for the hero. Still later is shown the money mad stock exchange in New York in the throes of a "bear" movement that means ruin and disaster for hundreds of frenzied operators.

With Eugene O'Brien playing a role for which he is ideally suited, Zena Keefe as his principal support, and surrounded by a cast of players who are among the ablest ever assembled, it is not strange that the wealth of action which is indicated by these big scenes makes for drama of the kind that is rarely encountered in the picture theatre. Added to the feature will be the latest Pathe News. Tomorrow, a Maurice Tourneur Special Production, "The Life Line," from the world's famous melodrama of the sea, "The Roman Rye."
